SATURDAY EVENING. JULY 7.

A TRUE HERO. - In one of the hotly contest. ed fights in Virginia during the war a Federal officer fell wounded in front of the Confederate breastworks. While lying there wounded and crying piteously for water, a Confederate soldier (James Moere, of Burke county, N. C.) declared his intention of supplying him with driok. The bullets were flying thick from both eides, and Moore's friends endeavored to dissuade bim from such a bazardous enterprise. Despite remonstrance and danger, however, Moore leaped the breastworks, canteen in hand, reached his wounded enemy and gave him drink. The Federal, under a sense of gratitude for the timely service, took out his gold watch and offered it to his benefactor, but it was refused. The offic-r then asked the name of the man who had braved such danger to succor him. The name was given, and Moore returned un hurt to his posi ion b hind the embankment. They saw nothing more of each other. Moore was subsequently wounded, and lost a limb in one of the engagements in Virginia, and re turned to his home in Burke county. A few days ago he received a communication from the Federal soldier to whom he had given the 'cup via New Orleans, to Galveston and Southern of coldwater" on the occasion alluded to announcing that he had settled on him the sum and West of $10,000, to be paid in four annual instalments of $2,500 each. Investigation has established the fact that there is no mistake or deception in the matter.-Raleigh News.
